The Burt Reynolds and Friends Museum is a not-for-profit organization which contains an extensive collection of gifts, memorabilia and autographed pictures from Hollywood's most famous stars, world leaders, and the world's greatest athletes.

A special area in the museum features Burt's prized collection of western memorabilia given to him by legendary cowboys such as Roy Rogers and Gene Autry.

The museum mission is to celebrate the cultural contributions and historical impact Burt Reynolds has had in the film industry and our hometown. The museum will reestablish the theater and film educational programs originally conceived by Burt.

Burt Reynolds, an international celebrity for over forty years, has made Jupiter his home for most of his career. It is appropriate that our community would establish a museum in Jupiter to highlight his lifetime achievements.

Burt Reynolds brought the magic of Hollywood back home and helped develop Jupiter's cultural identity. According to Burt, "The beauty of the museum is a result of the generosity of the community."
